The Frayman Group Secures Sensitive Information for Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft LLP with Compliguard Protect™

Compliguard Protect Successfully Deployed at the Firm; Protecting Millions of Documents

New York and Washington, DC – (August 25, 2009) – The Frayman Group, a leading provider of innovative risk management software and services for law firms, today announced the successful implementation of an information barriers and ethical walls system at Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft LLP, a prominent international law firm of more than 500 attorneys in five offices serving premier financial institutions, corporations and government entities. The system is designed to automate, create and monitor screens to protect sensitive information at the firm.

Compliguard Protect is a next generation information barriers and ethical walls application, designed from the ground up to effectively meet and exceed today's complex requirements for protecting sensitive information. Built on the Microsoft technology stack, Compliguard Protect delivers protection far beyond the boundaries of the document management repositories, securing all information across all critical business systems including records management, CRM, time & billing, new business inception, time entry and Microsoft SharePoint.

Cadwalader selected The Frayman Group's Compliguard Protect to meet the firm's stringent business requirements and because it is an IT-friendly .NET application, with a Web-based zero desktop footprint for both users and administrators of the system, providing both centralized and distributed deployment options.

Cadwalader is now using Compliguard Protect to secure critical business systems with millions of business documents across all of their offices. Cadwalader's IT and risk management teams worked closely with The Frayman Group risk management experts to help deploy the system, and create and activate screens for ethical walls.

"The system performs well beyond our expectations in terms of speed, reliability, efficiency and ease of use," said John Kruse, Director of Records & Conflicts Administration at Cadwalader. "This has been a win-win for both IT and business users at the firm, as the system allowed us to go live with no glitches and no disruption of our day to day business activities".
